in the cellar : Grapes were harvested between 26 - 28ÂºB, destalked and transferred to a tank press where it was exposed to skin contact for a period of 12 hours. Juice and skins were then separated and the juice pumped to a fermentation tank where yeast was added. After fermenting down 5ÂºB, 96 vol% wine spirit was added whereby any further fermentation was arrested. The wine was bottled after protein and tartrate stabilization.
