

Muratie Amber Forever 2008

Muratie's Amber was first produced by George Paul Canitz in the 1930's. The name Amber originated from both the colour of the product as well as the novel Forever Amber written by Kathleen Winsor in the 1920's. This novel is the story of a high class girl who kept some of the British upper class gentleman happy and content in the 1920's! Hence the quote by Canitz "To happy days and glorious nights, forever Amber".

It's ideal to enjoy it with cheese after a meal or to serve it chilled as an aperitif. Either way it is fun and loosens the tongues and gladdens the heart.
