ageing : Drink now or mature for up to eight years after vintage.

in the vineyard : Selected from a single vineyard, Protea, with two distinct exposures, a cooler south-western slope and a warmer north-western slope. Soils are predominantly of the Oakleaf form. The 18-year-old bushvines are not irrigated.

about the harvest: Great effort is made during harvesting - selected pockets of vines are harvested separately over three harvesting dates, by experienced pickers who make the critical initial selection.

in the cellar : The grapes were de-stemmed and lightly crushed into open-top fermentors. The juice was allowed to start natural fermentation at low temperatures and after a day inoculated with a selected strain. Fermentation was done at 26°C and drawn-off before dry. A combination of pump-overs and punch-downs were done. The wine spent 16 months in oak barrels, of which 35% were new.
