

Mulderbosch Chardonnay Barrel Fermented 2000

Michelangelo International Wine Award 2002 - Gold

The International Wine & Spirit Competition 2002 - Bronze

The South African Trophy Wine Show 2002 - Trophy for best Chardonnay & Best White Wine on Show

A bright, clear, lively greenish yellow colour with pale gold shards. A robust, complex nose with rich, classic Chardonnay fruit, buttered toast, citrus, vanilla and wild herbs. Velvety, buttery, luxurious mouthfeel. The palate smoothed to a voluptuous finish from the extended lees contact, resulting in a long, lingering aftertaste. A meal in itself! Prosciutto ham, duck liver pÃ¢tÃ©; Karoo lamb; honey-glazed roast pork; fresh char-grilled tuna; grilled crayfish with lemon garlic butter; and smoked aubergine salad.

ageing : Drinking exceptionally well now, but will gain in complexity over the next three to six years.

about the harvest: Made by winemaker Mike Dobrovic from one hundred percent Chardonnay fruit selected for its natural high acidity. The grapes were hand picked from vineyards in the prime Koelenhof area of Stellenbosch. The word "koel" is the Afrikaans word for "cool" and best describes how the area benefits from gentle sea breezes in the summer months.

in the cellar : One hundred percent of the wine was fermented with its own natural indigenous yeast in new French barriques. The wine underwent malolactic fermentation and was left on the lees for ten months during which the barrels were rolled twice a month. After fermentation the wine was lightly filtered and then bottled.
