The sophisticated Jess dry Rosé has been produced since 2007 and has become a firm favourite in the Vrede en Lust wine range. The playfully pink Jess rosé has a delicious bouquet and over-delivers on quality. Light bodied and bursting with aromas, this wine is characterized by its crisp style and fruity palate.

The Vrede en Lust Jess Rosé was named after the owner's eldest daughter, Jessica-Lee on her 16th birthday.

about the harvest:

The grapes was harvested at different sugar levels - typical for rosé production.

in the cellar :

The different components were fermented separately in stainless steel tanks to enhance the options for final blending. Juice was treated like white wine and fermented with no lees contact and no malolactic fermentation.
