about the harvest: The grapes were hand harvested at Optimal Ripeness in 20kg crates.

in the cellar : Crushing took place early the next morning, after chilling the grapes overnight in the cold room. Juice were drawn off during crushing to minimize extraction and maximize elegance. The juice were then settled, racked after two days and inoculated for fermentation. Fermentation was done at temperatures under 16°C to preserve delicate aromas. All varietals were fermented separately and only blended post fermentation for maximum complexity. The sweetness is from the grapes' natural sugar.
