

Groote Post Riesling 2019

This vintage displays stone fruit and jasmine fragrances on the nose. The wine has a lingering acidity that is well balanced by natural residual sugar on the palate.

about the harvest: The weather was moderate throughout the ripening season. This led to much even ripening of the grapes. Therefore we could harvest at optimal ripeness in the cellar : The grapes were destemmed and only the free-run juice was used. Fermentation took place in stainless steel tanks for 14 days where after fermentation was stopped by cooling the juice to 6°C. The wine spent 2 months on the lees with occasional stirring.
