in the vineyard :

Coastal zone and certain inland areas of the Western Cape. Mainly Malmesbury shale and Cape granite soils. Trellised vines with an average age of between 13 and 19 years enjoyed a Mediterranean climate, tempered by the cooling effect of ocean breezes, and received supplementary irrigation to produce 10-14 tonnes per hectare.

about the harvest: The grapes were machine-harvested early in the morning while it was still cool and the grape temperatures were low.

in the cellar : In the cellar, we worked reductively, minimizing oxidation to protect flavours. Grapes were gently pressed and only the best juice was fermented in stainless-steel tanks. After fermentation, the wine spent 4 months on lees to bring complexity, before clarification and bottling.
