ageing : Drinking beautifully now and will improve even more in time.

Succulent berry notes and fine tannins.

in the vineyard : Sourced from north and north-westerly vineyards at Vergelegen, where soil types of granite, Hutton and weathered shale dominate.

about the harvest: Grapes from various vineyards were hand-picked and sorted.

in the cellar : The grapes were then fermented in stainless steel tanks of various sizes, using a combination of different yeasts according to the varieties and soil types. Post-fermentation, according to the cultivar, we used various extended skin contact treatment. Post-skin contact, malolactic fermentation was completed in stainless steel tanks, and the wine was then taken to barrel. We used 15% new French oak of various sizes, where the wine was matured for 12 months then blended and bottled.
