in the vineyard : The Cabernet Sauvignon grapes grow high in the hills above Knorhoek in highly oxidised Hutton and Clovelly soils to provide the perfect terroir for an authentic and balanced Cabernet Sauvignon. In summer, the north-facing hills are cooled off by Atlantic sea winds to ensure that the ripening process is slow, which creates a perfect balance between sugar and flavour in the cellar : Wines were left to age in 52% 1st fill French oak and 17% 2nd fill French oak 225L barrels. After approximately 24 months wines were removed from their ageing vessels, then blended, and prepared for bottling. The final wine was aged in bottle for 1 years before commercial release.
