

Laibach Sauvignon Blanc 1997

The wine is described as having a whiff of cut grass with steely aromas, which lead to a tropical fruit palate of kiwi and gooseberry flavours ending on a crisp note. The touch of sugar balances, firm acids and a clean, racy finish makes it a very well balanced wine with a good round mouthfeel.

in the cellar : To protect the fruit character of the Sauvignon, the grapes were carefully picked and selected by hand, crushed and the juice gently vinified at cool temperatures. To contribute to the above it was handled reductively and oxidation was prevented where possible from the vineyards to the final product in bottle.
